DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 7 is objected to because of the following informalities:

-In claim 7, line 7, “energization” should be changed to --non-energization--.

-In claim 7, line 8, “non-inergization” should be changed to --non-energization--.

Appropriate corrections are required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hajima et al.

(JP 07-139455)

Regarding claim 1, Hajima discloses a starting apparatus of an internal combustion engine comprising: main air passage including an intake manifold (2) for supplying air to each cylinder of the engine, a bypass air passage (14) provided in parallel and connected close to intake port to the main air passage each cylinder (see Figure 1), vaporization fuel supply means (15) for supplying vaporized fuel to the bypass air passage, bypass air control valve (16) capable of controlling the incoming air quantity into the bypass passage, wherein main air control valves for the main air passage are provided near intake ports in respective pipes of the intake manifold.

Regarding claim 2, Hajima further discloses that at the time engine start-up cranking, the bypass air control valve is opened and the main air passage is closed, and vaporized fuel is supplied to the bypass air passage by the vaporization fuel supply means (see translation, pages 2, 3, parts [0013], [0016]).

Regarding claim 4, Hajima further discloses that the vaporization fuel supply means comprises an auxiliary fuel injection valve and a heater for heating the fuel injected from the auxiliary fuel injection valve (see translation, page 3, lines 1-4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hajima et al. (JP 07-139455) as applied to claim 1 above, in view of Mitobe et al. (US Patent 5,765,372).

Regarding claims 8-10, Hajama discloses all the claimed limitations as discussed in claim 1 above, however, fails to disclose that the exhaust filtration apparatus has one support container on exhaust pipe, and the catalyst supports filled into one support container hold HC absorbents. Mitobe teaches that it is conventional in the art, to utilize an exhaust filtration apparatus installed in an exhaust pipe of the engine comprising a catalyst that holds HC absorbents (see col. 9, lines 1-3).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have utilized the teaching of Mitobe in the Hajima method, since the use thereof would have improved the efficiency of the emission control system.

Moreover, re claim 10, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize plural support containers in the exhaust pipe, since it has been held that interchanging an integral part, for plural parts involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Erlichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6, 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 3, 5 are allowed.
